Chapter 1: Abandoned

I honestly don't remember how it all happened! It was a totally normal day, and I remember my parents saying bye to us, and then we waited, the whole day we waited for them to come home, but they never came!

I remember waiting for a very long time and Lexus called me to come, I came and her face had a expression on her face that told me that she was worried about the exact same thing that I was, our parents might have gotten caught in the recent, very violent snowstorms. Here in Antarctica, we have snowstorms very ¹ often but those snowstorms were unlike any we had ever seen before! They

Our settlement (when you can actually see it made a lot of the people in the settlement move out! But not us! We had to stay put in this silly dumb environment and that choice changed everything! About a week after that things had gotten chaotic! There was no one left in the settlement and without being tended too most of the systems in the settlement were failing! The water system was leaking and causing the cold to freeze the water supply and the only time we could get water was from the outside and I don't think you know how dangerous it was exit the settlement. The snowstorms had gotten more and more intense ever sense we lost our parents. One day I remember Lexus letting me do something that she doesn't usually let me do, she let me play

mineplex on her inti

-tab and I accepted it with glee!

But I should have payed more attention to her that day because she had been repairing all the systems that morning, then she had gotten out all the water reserves and enough food for at least 3 years! The next thing I knew the sliding doors had closed and I haven't seen her ever ² since, in fact I haven't seen anyone since that horrible day!

Chapter 2: System danger!

3 years later

I woke up this morning and didn't know that this time tomorrow, nothing would be the same, but it started just like any other day would have. I went into the kitchen pod and took down a box of loopy droopy cereal and started to eat, then I got a cup, turned on the sink and no water came out!? I didn't understand what was happening so I went into the system room and the moment I opened the door, water flooded out of the room! I saw the water tank with a giant crack inside! It was already cracked before but since there were no tanks left, I decided ⁴ to add a hose to the back of the tank to the outside to get water, and I sealed the crack with duct tape, that's right I sealed the big crack up with tape! My tape-tank mechanism worked perfectly for about two months but I was really worried about when it broke, that time had come today and I had no idea what to do! The water was flooding into the living room and making things fall over! I checked some of the other systems that I had fixed with duct tape and they were not doing so good either, I don't necessarily remember the last time I came into this part of the system room and it had gotten really bad too. The pressure system had 4 broken valves and 1 broken piston! Suddenly I heard a gigantic explosion and a robotic voice

⁵ said "System danger!, System danger!" My mom and dad had taught me and Lexus what to do if the voice said those words, so I grabbed my knife, Lexus's inti-tab, my backpack and screamed: "System, open garage door" and I heard a whooshing sound as the door opened, and then I heard a loud thump!!! And all the lights went out I heard the voice go: Power failllllllure! And then, silence! I unplugged my mom's snowmobile and watched the dashboard light up, I knew that I would have to open up the garage door to the outside so I pressed the missile launch button and boom!

The missile hit the door and it exploded open. I hit the pedal and the engine fired up and I drove outside, and that's when I realized ⁶ my situation, I was sitting on a snowmobile with no protection from the snowstorms and the only gear I had was a anti-tab with no signal and a knife, I was alone. Then I heard a snow monster roar, it sounded like it was getting closer, very close. Oh no I said silently to myself.

Chapter 3:

Me VS monster

I turned the snowmobile back on and slammed my foot on the pedal, but I was one second too late. BOOM!!! I was slammed to the ground and I saw the snowmobile spin in the air and the monster grabbed it and threw it very violently into the snow. Then the monster left it alone and looked at me and said "Me hungry for human breakfast!" Then he grabbed me and without thinking I grabbed my knife and slashed at his arm, and he roared in pain and whacked my head I fell to the ground ⁸ and my vision went wiggly and my mind went blank! All I could think of doing was running back into the settlement and hiding. But I could vaguely remember that something was wrong in there as I fell asleep, unconscious...

I woke up in a cave full of bones, speaking of bones, I think I had just broken one of mine, my ribs were in serious pain. I tried to get up and my breathing fell and I clutched my chest. Suddenly I heard a roar, a very loud roar and the same monster that I had been fighting just a second before came in with a gigantic bone and my snowmobile he threw the snowmobile on the floor and came over to me, I played dead. He must've thought I was serious because he came over to me and said ⁹ pee-woo you human, I no eat dead break-food, goodbye. He hauled me outside and threw me face first into the snow. I still needed to get the snowmobile so I went back to the outside of the settlement and just tried for old times sake to open it up but it was locked, no need to even try. I picked up my fallen knife from the floor and got ready to fight again, I was going to make it to Eco city if it costed me my life.

Chapter 4:

Monster maniac

I waited for a few minutes outside the monster's cave until the cold became unbearable! I had to do something before I froze to death! I partially think it was because of hypothermia but I stupidly ran into the monster's cave screaming YAA-HOOTY! And then I rammed into the monster's chest and bounced back, I took out my knife and held it up in my hand just like they did in my favorite ninja show. Then the monster took his big bone and crashed it down on top of me, I was blown back, barely ¹¹ able to block the smash with my tiny knife, trying my best not to get annihilated by the smashing bone! I kept reaching out with my knife, trying to stab the monster but my small arms couldn't reach over to him! I was going to lose this fight by dying if there was not a miracle, and as if right on cue, the monster lost his balance tripped, and his bone banged against the wall, breaking in half and getting stuck in the wall! I saw the opportunity and ran over to the snowmobile and reached for my pocket but I didn't feel my keys inside, I looked around frantically for them and horribly I saw them in the monster's hands, he was jingling them around and knew I had to kill that monster if I wanted to do anything else!

Mission keys go!

I needed those keys and I was focusing on one thing: getting them back so I could get out of this smelly cave so I decided to kill the monster, I had to! He had done me so much damage and now stealing my keys was too much, I stamped over to him and tried to take the keys from his hands. He must've thought that was rude because he looked up at me and slapped me in the face really hard, I curled back in pain and went around to his back for another try but to no success as he used his back to but me off. I wanted to scream and kill ¹³ this monster, but I kept my cool and put those thoughts for after, just in case I had no other choice. I was glad for those keys because shiny things freeze snow monsters and they don't want to do anything else but stare at the shiny object like they want to marry it, I read about that in the settlement library back when the people hadn't taken the books when they went back to eco city so I haven't read anything since. I couldn't keep up this "trying to take the keys from a monster's hand" much longer, I knew I was going to have to resort to trying to beat him with my now broken knife, so I tried one last thing, I tried tackling the monster! And BOOM! My head rammed into him and the keys flew into the air as the monster was pushed backwards into ¹⁴ the wall and as I rubbed my head in the spot where it had hit him. Then I ran at the keys grabbed them and stuffed them into the keyhole in the snowmobile and finally I heard the relieving sound of the snowmobile's engine turning on, and so I pressed the gas pedal and got out of this stupid, stinky cave!

Chapter 6:

Onward!

I drove for an exasperating amount of time without any trouble until I realized how tired I was! What time was it, how long had I been going exactly? I stopped to really think, and I realized that it was probably around 2 p.m.

when I had first fought the monster and 3 more hours unconscious and 4 more for the next few fights so that meant that it was at least after midnight now! No wonder I was so sleepy! It was like a fight over one part of my mind and another, one sleepy and one not, one telling me to take a break, one telling me to keep going.

And at the ¹⁶ same time a warning flashed on the dashboard that kept beeping and saying low gas, low gas, low gas! And then the engine spluttered and shut off. I looked behind me and saw a long trail of gasoline in the snow and I gasped and looked down to the side of the vehicle and saw a big dent and a crack inside. And small drips of gasoline were activity seeping out of the crack. I was sort of relived that I could finally sleep but pushed the thought away, it would be a thousand times harder to travel tomorrow morning but it's not like I had much of another choice now. I dug at the snow and made myself a little nook under the surface. I went to sleep thinking about everything that happened today and what exactly was going to ¹⁷ happen when I arrived at eco city no matter what happened it was going to change my life in a very different way than what I was used to. Somehow after a long day of fighting monsters, I went to sleep under the snow, the last sound I heard was the howling noise of the windy snowstorms that linger in the night.

Chapter 7:
Crystal forest

I awoke with a jerk the next morning and my head busted through the snow at the top of my little tunnel and I only had one thing on my mind: what time was it!? I jumped up opened the storage compartment in the snowmobile and took out my inti-tab, turned it on and oh boy, I needed to get going, it was ten thirty-four! I didn't have a working snowmobile anymore so I got walking, walking, walking. Hours later I saw something in the distance and so I got excited, could I of already reached my goal? I started running towards the thing ¹⁹ and when I got a little closer, some of my excitement drained out but not all of it, it was one of the rare crystal forests and you could find all sorts of things in it. About fifteen minutes later I reached the forest and what I saw washed away any disappointment that was still left in me, it was a beautiful sight. There were icaconia* trees with crystal leaves and fresh icicles hanging from the branches. The fresh snow laying on the ground was so soft, so I decided to take a handful, make it into a ball and smash it against the ice covered trees. The second I hit it, something fell off of the bark and made a beeping sound upon hitting the ground. The second I picked it up, the sound stopped. It was some sort of weird device that was the exact same color as ²⁰ the bark so it would not be found, but what was the most intriguing was the familiar symbol on the front. It was the letter L with a line right through the middle but I couldn't quite remember what it meant or where it was from so I shrugged and put it in my pocket. I was burning daylight sitting out here staring at this so called “interesting” object so I decided to get going, out of this beautiful forest. I needed to find a new home and some new friends, I needed to start a new life.

icaconia trees: in the Sagatic world these rare species of trees are survivors in the cold winters of the ²¹ arctics

Chapter 8: The

journey shop

I was going crazy from all this walking, i needed a snowmobile or something but I didn't have anything like that so I just had to keep going. It went like that as the hours passed by until I saw the weirdest thing, there was a run down gas station sitting in the middle of no where, the sign on the top had two letters missing but I think it said the journey shop: best service store around this area! And the best thing about it was that there was a snowmobile sitting there! I sprinted inside hoping that there would be someone in there but it was ²² abandoned. There were tables with busted legs, isles of shelves with most things gone. I went over to one of the shelves that still had things in it and picked up a pack of loopy droopy candy and I checked the expiration date: it had expired 3 years ago! This meant that if Lexus had ever been here on her journey then she might have eaten the same candy 3 years ago! I went outside and hoped, hoped really bad that that snowmobile worked. But I needed its keys if I wanted to even try. I tried looking for it in the keyhole but I thought that would be too easy! Then I looked around on the ground for them, a few minutes later I stepped on something that made a jingling noise and bingo! I found the keys! I ran back over to the snowmobile and hoping the whole time I turned the keys into the keyhole and the engine roared to life! It worked! I needed to get out of this place at all costs. I didn't even know a single thing about how my life would be different like I would of never imagined it!

horizon

I was very, very grateful that there was a working snowmobile that I could drive and that I could finally continue my journey to the great Eco city! I really needed to stop stalling my journey so I departed from the journey shop after taking the few snacks that were not expired yet.

2 hours later..

After all the traveling and fighting and discoveries and surprises, I saw a sign that said: Eco city: 1h 30min ahead! At ²⁵ the very edge of the horizon, I saw the faintest hint of a building of the city. Finally after my journey I would arrive at my goal, my sister would be very proud of me and I just wished she was here to experience it with me. I just needed an hour and a half until arrival so I looked at the gas monitor, saw that it was still full and pushed the lever that regulated the speed to full power. Whoosh, the engine roared at full power! I was so excited that I would finally arrive that I forgot that the gas monitor had not moved ever since I had been driving it and that it could be super low and I couldn't even realize it! Who knows what could happen to the snowmobile of such an old model when it runs out of gas. I was too excited to realize a thing!

Chapter 10:

I was so happy while sitting on this snowmobile, while quickly getting closer and closer to my final goal and the snowmobile was zooming around at full speed. Then at that point I heard a noise, at first I thought it was nothing because it was really faint but over time it got louder and louder. I thought to myself am I imagining this? But I don't think I was because then the snowmobile started shuttering around and I was losing control! The engine was somehow out of gas! The gas monitor did not ²⁷ agree with me because it still said: Gas 85% full, just as it did 5 hours ago! The engine was now out of gas and I was pretty sure the engine was backfiring, I needed to get off here. In lots of shows I had seen what would happen if you stayed on a backfiring engine: KA-BOOM! And by the way it was shuddering now, it was pretty close to that point! Just then I heard a bang coming from the exhaust pipe and some smoke came out! Then the vehicle swerved and toppled over and I flew off just as the vehicle exploded sending debris everywhere, skis flying off and metal plates and pieces fly and some of them hitting me in the face and wires whipping me and zapping me lightly. I fell to the floor blood falling too, I was in serious shock and pain, bruises and cuts ²⁸ all over me and some of them bleeding lightly. I had brought a medical kit with me from the journey shop and with hope that it survived the blast, I crawled over to the wreckage of the once intact snowmobile: result I found one shattered, one burned pieces of plastic that was once the cover of the med kit. I found a package of burned band-aids that were no use now cause I tried to put one on, and it had lost it's stickiness. I needed to get going, barley able to stand up I started walking very, very slowly towards the city.

Chapter 11: The

I can't explain in words how much pain I was in while walking through the slippery, actively melting snow! It hurt so bad, especially after every time I slipped and fell! I was pretty sure that I was okay but just tired from my long odyssey across Antarctica. I just needed to endure approximately ten more minutes before I would arrive at the first store or house and I could see someone else other than me for the first time in years! I used the surge of excitement to ignore the pain ³⁰ and start running! I started counting down the minutes: ten, nine, eight, seven, six, five, four, three, two than finally! One! I was no longer standing on snow, but on concrete! I stopped running and looked around, there were not many stores or houses, because this was the very outskirts of northern Eco city and so not many people come over here so many of the stores lose business fast. I suddenly realized how hungry I was, I hadn't eaten real food in about three days, I've only eaten energy bars and drank en-er-drink. I took off my backpack and rummaged through it hoping that the previous owner of this backpack had left at least one eclo*. I ended up finding three eclos and I went into one of the stores that was labeled:

Marty's house: convenient things ³¹ available 24/7! The first thing I saw was that there was someone sleeping on the main desk, the second was that this store was very clean and I checked a package and it had food up to date, unlike the journey shop. I must have been too loud picking up uncountable number of packets of loopy droopy candy, because the person supposedly named "Marty" woke up and looked up and yelled was dat, whose there! I was terrified of the sudden sound that I yelped and dropped all the packages of candy! I regained my senses and said: My name is Levi, I am a traveler, coming from Antarctica. He responded with a gruff and I hard him mutter "Another traveler" A spark lit up in my brain and I said, what exactly was the name of this traveler? He responded ³² with a gruff with the answer I was expecting: She said her name was Lexus.

Chapter 12: The

Discovery

On those words, my mind went kaboom! I had expected it but it was still surprising when I heard it for real. What did she look like? I asked. She looked pretty he said dreamily, I rolled my eyes. She had brown hair and one streak of red. Her eyes were blue. I pulled out her inti-tab and searched for a picture of her and found one. Did she look like this? I asked. Yes exactly like that. He replied Where did she go? She went to old man ³⁴ Charlie and she said something about wanting to work for the Eco spy force. What's the Eco spy agency? I asked. It's Eco city's team of kids who go around helping, it's something like police but that is from old times like when Charlie was a kid, there were grownups saving people instead of kids, uh it sounds like the weirdest thing in the world. Anyhow if you want to know more about her than you can go to Charlie, he can probably put you on the right path to finding her. By the way, he said hesitantly, if you find her do you think you could ask her to come on a date with me? I thought my eyes were going to pop out with how hard I rolled my eyes.

I was still looking for this supposedly wise and old Charlie and I thought I would find him in a mansion or something but I found him in a very old stand that had a busted wheel. Do you know who Lexus is? The old man looked up at me and said I know where Lexus is, she is working for the Eco spy agency and is now worked her way up to being the leader, she is very kind and brave. I didn't necessarily believe that this old man who was selling jackets was saying that he recruited my long lost sister to some weird agency that has the same name as the city that it works for, I wanted him to prove it so I dumbly said: I want to join the agency. He looked at me and raised his eyebrows. You do? Ok then I will show you something. ³⁶

Chapter 13:

Unbreakable

You want to be part of the Eco agency oh young one, you have a heart of a leader so I will let you... lead? I guessed I can't believe it I asked to join and I get to be a... leader he cut me off, yes young one but not the leader of the entire agency, just one group. Here is your leader badge, just say the name of the team into it and tap on it, it will give you a fun little surprise. I said the name "Sagatics" because in Ecolonian it means unbreakable. And I wanted my team to be that way. I pressed the newly formed "S" on the badge and a 37 rumbling sound came from the ground. At first I thought this man was evil and had given me some cursed earth element artifact but a hatch opened up and it looked like a three story building had opened up from the ground and then turned around and on the back was a small metal door I ran in there held up the badge and opened the door to my very fancy new home.

Notice: There are two chapters left in this book :-)

Ever heard about the Sagatics? If you have, you probably didn't know about the origin story of how it all began, this story explains all of that. Levi is a little boy living in Antarctica until one day his parents go missing then a few days after that, his sister Lexus leaves what will he do? Snow monsters, crystal forests, weird devices, old convenience stores and snowmobile explosions. Was all that worth it for what he got? Read to find out

The first Sagatics chapter book ever made from Levi's book store!

Chapter 14: New

I had never had such a nice house in my life it had everything from a roll of super nice toilet paper to an ice cream dispenser and a hamburger making machine. It was LEGENDARY I could never have asked for a better house anywhere anytime it had a bunch of tubes that I had no idea what where for and there was an area on the top floor where there were buttons and screens everywhere so I could watch multiple movies at the same time while playing mineplex on a bigger screen than the inti-tab so much food so much entertainment and I was suddenly hit with how tired I was after 3 days of nonstop chaos I took a nice long nap then when I woke up, thinking I was going to eat lunch when it was time for breakfast, I was having more fun than I had in years then suddenly my doorbell rang, I was surprised then I thought will my team already start right now? I was going to have fun with my new life I just knew it. I opened the door and a bunny girl was standing by the door. Hi she said, my name's Touni.

Note from author:

Thank you for reading this book, I hoped you liked it, I'm sorry if there are typos or mistakes or spelling errors but I really spent a lot of time and effort into this first book and I really hope you like it, and I sure do I bet you all have heard me talking about the Sagatics before but I bet you don't know the origin story of what happened, I still get sad that I have to take away Levi's parents but the story just wouldn't work any other way. I really want to add a Q&A in the next book or in the future versions of this one so you can send me messages at

Chapter 1: New friend (book 2 preview)

Immediately, I was speechless the second this person walked up to the door of my little bace. I nodded my head and said Hi, I'm Levi. Touni responded I am supposed to be your first teammate, I've been wanting to come to Eco for years and whenever they came and knocked on the door I knew they had come to recruit me. I had been playing their test video games for years and I ⁴³ got #1 every time by at least 1000 points so I think they got interested in me and they decided to recruit me. We'll come in, don't just sit there outside in the cold, come in. I'm just saying that I'm a very good builder. They brought me here and said there was a flying system in this base that I could repair so then we could go on our first mission. She said excitedly, I want to get working right away, so where can I put my stuff? Something I thought was weird was that there were 12 rooms inside this building so I let her choose one of the eleven empty ones. She chose a medium sized room where she immediately started working on the bed making sure that all the screws and bolts were ok and started plastering pink colored wood with ⁴⁴ flowers on it. I thought it was fun that I had only had this team and house for one week and we were going to build a flying system for the base and we might get our first mission very early on so I think this Eco thing working out very nicely I think this superhero/spy thing working out very nicely!
